

Too few large companies own far too many radio, television and newspapers. I believe that they will push their own agenda onto their media outlets and exert far too much editorial control over what is supposed to be a free press. Also, how can independent outlets be heard above the din of so much corporate media. It is bad for democracy to hear so few voices.